Thanks for the update.

My initial reaction is always that our officers are well trained and have acted appropriately but we can never assume that is the case without verifying.

Enjoy the chief's meeting.

More details....

There's just nothing to this. He put the guy in cuffs because he was playing games about be identified. He handed fur alphabet refrigerator magnets when he asked for ID. Then he pulled out his ID, refused to surrender it and shoved it back in his pocket. There is nothing to this as usual.

Thanks John. Seems similar to the incident we had a few years ago when a man started filming a female employee in city hall and made her uncomfortable.

May not be the same person but clearly someone intentionally trying to film a provoked response from a city employee. In this case it appears to be a police officer.

I'll have to look into. The officer clearly says he had two witnesses tell him he was asking for money. You can cuff someone for Reasonable Articulate Suspicion, so he was not necessarily arrested. Let me see what I can find out. I'll let you both know.

Watched the video and it does look like the same person. Let's get John's take on it.

Watched the video but most of it was at Roswell city hall and a few seconds at the end where it looks like one of our officers may have arrested a man for soliciting money in front of our city hall.
